Judson Center's Building Community Partnerships Program hosts monthly Foster Parent Support Group Meetings. These meetings focus on different support topics, as well as conduct open floor discussions surrounding issues foster parents may face during placement.

These meetings provide the opportunity to:

- ◆ Meet with other foster parents and trained parent partners that have a wealth of knowledge in the foster care, adoption, and court processes.
- ◆ Learn and share useful skills and information to efficiently navigate through the child welfare and foster care systems.
- ◆ Gain access to invaluable community resources.
